

LAX

Los Angeles, United States

Iconic

Visitors to Los Angeles will all be familiar with the iconic pylons at the entrance to Los Angeles International Airport, and the sweeping ribbon of colored light that follows the upper roadway around the terminals. Featured on nearly every newscast, the pylons are illuminated with nearly 2,000 ColorBlast luminaires from Color Kinetics. The airport uses them as a dynamic entrance to the airport and to celebrate and support events throughout the city and the world. The ribbon of light around the roadway is programmed to provide complementary light to the pylons and features nearly a mile of Color Graze luminaires that create subtle color changes on the route around the terminals.
